

From: Robin G. Crowder, Ed.D., Program Director
James Madison University Educational Leadership Program

Subject: JMU Educational Leadership “Informational” Meeting Coming to Your Area!

Location: Stone Robinson Elementary School (Albemarle County) Library

Date: Wednesday, May 15th 2019 from 4:30 – 5:30 pm

Is School Leadership in your future? James Madison University has the answer!!!!!!

Come and learn more about James Madison University’s Educational Leadership Program and this wonderful opportunity coming to your area. We are hoping to start a new cohort beginning in late August (or January, 2020) in the Charlottesville area.

James Madison University is pleased to offer school divisions around the Commonwealth classes leading towards a M.Ed. in Educational Leadership or a Certificate Program in Educational Leadership (Certificate is for those who already have a Master’s Degree). The Master’s Degree Program is a 33 credit program in the areas of Leadership and Education. The Certificate Program in Educational Leadership is for those individuals that already have a Master’s degree. This program is 18 -21 credit hours. Classes meet one night per week from 5-9 pm.

Graduate Classes are offered at a significantly reduced rate to school division employees. (2018-19 cost - $969/course)

Please share with your teachers and staff.

If you cannot attend the meeting, do not hesitate to email Dr. Roger Collins colli5rd@jmu.edu for specific cohort information. Alternatively, the program director (Dr. Crowder) may also be contacted for overall program details at crowderg@jmu.edu

Mark your calendar:

Location: Stone Robinson Elementary School Library
958 N. Milton Road Charlottesville, VA. 22911

Date: Wednesday, May 15th from 4:30 – 5:30 pm